Olive

A father in our infant loss support group spoke of his baby's name and how glad he was that they had named her Olive. It was a name that was connected with the past in their family, but it became more than that for him in his grief journey. He found great pleasure in being reminded of his daughter as he cooked with olive oil, or saw a bowl of olives on the Thanksgiving table, or ordered olives on his pizza. Seeing the Olive Garden restaurant sign as he drove past it every day on the way to work caused him to smile. He wondered if an olive tree would grow in this climate.

Often, in deep grief we tend to protect ourselves from reminders of the pain and suffering we bear, as though we could pretend that it is not there. But we cannot. The pain lies within us waiting for the opportunity to be exposed to the light, waiting to be noticed and acknowledged by us at least, if not others.

Instead of pushing away thoughts about his daughter because remembering was too hard to bear, this father took her in to himself and delighted in her being all around him. Some of us take years to get this wise. We do the "ain't it awful" dance instead of seeing that it's all good, even the hard stuff. We look at what we have lost rather than what we have received.

I looked around my house and realized that I have reminders everywhere of those I have lost to death. I have a crystal bowl that belonged to my mother. I use it often, not just on special occasions. I have beautiful pottery that my dear friend Jo made and a chair that belonged to Midge. A glass box in my bathroom came from Jay's relics. To other people who see them, they're just a pretty bowl, a nice piece of pottery, an interesting box and a comfortable chair. But for me, these items speak volumes about those who are gone, and can transport me to another time and place where grief was fresh and nothing else mattered. I have not forgotten where these items came from and the stories and the lessons that are carried in them.

Learning how to use grief in a positive way can be hard work. And it can be lonely work. Others who haven't suffered a profound loss in their lives won't understand what's happened to you. It will be difficult for them to appreciate where your heart and mind will travel as you try to put meaning to loss. It's just an olive, right? But there will be people around you who have walked in the darkness of pain and suffering, even if the story doesn't match yours.

Last night I watched the movie "An Unfinished Life." In this movie a father who is in deep grief after the tragic death of his son, can only see the imperfection in his daughter-in-law, whom he has reason to blame for his son's death. It is easier for him to push her away with his anger than to cherish what he, and she, have both loved, and lost. Over time he gets to see how others have dealt with unfortunate mistakes in their own lives, acknowledging their shortcomings and asking for forgiveness from those impacted by their mistakes. Grief casts a wide net catching all kinds of life experiences that help us to learn what we need to learn. In the movie the father was drunk the night his friend was mauled by a bear and unable to help him. The young granddaughter, in a moment of panic puts the truck into gear causing her grandfather to fall off the truck and get injured. A mother looks away for an instant and her 12 year old daughter drowns. It's the griever who is challenged to be open to the message these stories carry as they hear of others' tragedies or mistakes. Too often we say, "You don't understand."

It is easy to focus on the tragic end rather than allowing ourselves to remember the whole story that includes both sorrow and joy.

When we allow gratitude and forgiveness into this grief work we have to do, the load gets lighter. Sometimes it comes quickly. Sometimes it's a longer process. We are forever changed. And that can be a good thing.

Tears No More

Oh beautiful baby, so far away

Mommy will see you again,

In Heaven someday.

Losing you, my sweet baby

Is the hardest thing I'll ever bear.

The sense of loss and longing

Will always linger there.

Your life, like a flower

Budded on Earth, only to bloom in Heaven.

Your memory forever lives on

Even so long after you're gone.

For such a sudden loss,

There's just no time to prepare.

It will take all of eternity

To accept that you're not here.

I loved you like there was no tomorrow

And then one day, there wasn't.

Our hearts full of sadness and sorrow,

That controls our every moment.

I feel so guilty for your death

But what more could I have done?

Should I have watched you take every breath,

My precious little one?

The day you died,

My heart split in two.

One side with only memories,

The other died with you.

Your memory provides me shelter,

Through the night and the day.

So walk with me angel,

And light my ways.

I know you don't want me to cry

But these tears tell a story

Of your brief life, so innocent and pure.

But I know when I see you,

These tears will be no more.

For Kamden Isaiha Chrisenberry.

KU School of Medicine-Wichita receives grant for prenatal education program

WICHITA, KAN. – The KU School of Medicine-Wichita, in collaboration with the Maternal Infant Health Coalition, has received a $342,615 grant from the Kansas Department of Health & Environment to create Baby Talk, a community prenatal education program.

Baby Talk will use the March of Dimes' curriculum to educate pregnant women on topics such as safe sleep, breastfeeding, smoking cessation, signs of pre-term labor, nutrition, and physical activity during pregnancy.

Classes will be held at Via Christi Chang Family Medicine Clinic, Via Christi St. Joe Family Medicine Clinic, Wesley Women's Care, Wesley Family Medicine, and HealthCore Clinic. Women will be invited to attend six 2-hour sessions and will receive incentives for participation.

The goal is to reach 375 women in the first year in an effort to improve birth outcomes and reduce infant mortality.

Safe sleep training session held in Wichita

They came from nearly every corner of the state, 25 in total. Nurses, social workers, a physician, a laborist and other professionals working in county public health departments, schools, hospitals, child care centers, childrens' homes, crisis centers and with community-based programs, all eager to learn the skills and knowledge to teach others how to help Kansas babies live and thrive in a safe sleep environment.

"You are the ones working in the trenches," said Christy Schunn, Maternal Infant Health Coalition (MIHC) co-chair and Kansas Infant Death and SIDS Network executive director, after listening to the attendees describe their client base, which included young families, teen moms, foster parents, rape victims, EMS first responders, child care providers and medical residents.

Funded by a March of Dimes grant, the two-day Safe Sleep Instructor Training Seminar, held June 4-5 at KUSM-W, was conducted by Schunn, Dr. Stephanie Kuhlmann and Cari Schmidt, associate professor in KUSM-W Office of Research, all members of the MIHC, which MSSC coordinates.

Each year, approximately 250 Kansas babies die before their first birthday; 84% of sleep-related deaths are infants aged less than four months old who die with unsafe items present.

"It's not expensive to ensure babies are always in a safe sleep environment," said Schunn. Using the ABCs of safe sleep — Alone on the Back in a Crib — Schunn listed the basics anyone needs to know about putting a baby to sleep safely:

- on his or her back in a wearable blanket or one-piece sleeper.
- in a crib or portable crib with a firm mattress and fitted sheet.
- free of blankets, bumper pads, stuffed animals or other items.
- in the parent's room at a temperature comfortable for adults.
- in a smoke-free home.

The training seminar used the safe sleep recommendations developed by the American Academy of Pediatrics. Seminar attendees completed pre- and post-tests and participated in role playing and trial presentations in preparation for conducting safe sleep training in their communities.

"As a pediatrician, wife of an obstetrician and a mother, I have a vested interest in improving the infant mortality rates in our state. Working on this issue, I've learned how important it is to train you, other health care professionals and caregivers in order to keep Kansas babies alive and healthy," Dr. Kuhlmann told the seminar attendees.

Wichita Business Journal Announces additional 2015 Health Care Heroes Jul 7, 2015, 6:00am CDT

Sedgwick County Safe Sleep Task Force was recently named to the Health Care Heroes class of 2015. The Wichita Business Journal will announce the list of honorees and will honor the group at a dinner Sept. 1 at the Hyatt Regency Wichita.

The Safe Sleep Task Force is a major component of the local Maternal Infant Health Collaboration, which works to address the high rate of infant mortality in Sedgwick County. The Safe Sleep Taskforce employs a novel approach to disseminate the American Academy of Pediatrics recommendations for safe sleep environments and reduce the number of babies who die from SIDS and sleep-related deaths within their first year. Instead of focusing just on parent education, the taskforce is reinforcing the importance of physicians, other providers and hospitals delivering consistent safe sleep messages to mothers and families across the continuum of care. This is work not undertaken anywhere else.

In collaboration with Cari Schmidt, PhD, KUSM-Wichita, Zachary Kuhlmann, DO a member of Associates in Women's Health, a private OB-GYN practice, and the KU School of Medicine-Wichita's Obstetrical and Gynecology Department, Stephanie Kuhlmann, DO, Pediatrics medical director at Wesley Medical Center and associate professor in KU School of Medicine-Wichita's Pediatric Department and Christy Schunn, Kansas Infant Death and SIDS Network, the safe sleep task force has published several research articles on their findings and delivered presentations, including the prestigious International Conference on Stillbirth, SIDS and Baby Survival held in Amsterdam in 2014.

The Safe Sleep Task Force developed the Physician Safe Sleep Toolkit that was piloted at the KU Obstetrics, Family Medicine and Pediatric outpatient clinics and other local sites. Training and research were essential to the process as the project evolved. In addition, Dr. Zak Kuhlmann led the effort at Associates in Women's Health to incorporate safe sleep education during 28-week and 36-week prenatal visits with the necessary research components. Dr. Stephanie Kuhlmann championed a project at Wesley Medical Center that modeled safe sleep to parents and ensured a safe sleeping environment for infant pediatric patients in the hospital, and then was disseminated to hospitals across the nation. This talented group makes a difference in the quality of patient care available in Wichita-Sedgwick County every day. Moreover, their efforts with the Safe Sleep Task force are improving the lives of infants throughout the state, nation and world.

Drs. Stephanie & Zachary Kuhlmann, DO, Carolyn Ahlers-Schmidt, PhD, and KIDS Network Executive Director, Christy Schunn at the International Conference on Stillbirth, SIDS and Baby Survival in Amsterdam.
